ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For State Treasurer.
We are authorized to announce H. H. HENNING, Wayne county, a candidate for the office of State Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Hawaiian Islands are now connected with the United States by cable which was completed January 3rd. In a short time this cable will be extended to the Philippines.

Hon. Jas. D. Black, of Barbourville, has published a card declining to enter the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mr. Black had friends in Adair county who would have given him their support had he remained in the contest. We are sorry that his card evidenced sores.

Cousin Kew, who was shot on L. & N. train a few nights ago, while pulling into Louisville, identifies the photograph of Gus Hyatt, an escaped convict, as the man who did the shooting and attempted to rob the train. Several detectives, who have been at work on the case, pronounce the robbery story a fake.

The political prophet who circumscribes the available Democratic Presidential material to three eastern men, in our judgment, is a man figuring on an unknown quantity. No man can foretell who our nominee may be. The Democratic party covers the country and it possesses a mass of sterling ability and true statesmen in every State of the union.

OSARK BRIEFS.

It snows one day, freezeeth the next and then comes the rain. Thus passeth the time in these regions. The new year has come and with it coming many resolutions have been made for—well, for the better it is hoped. Some say they will cease to smoke, but when plowing time comes and the ground doesn't plow as it should and the mule walks wrong then: "Come up there you old black and white foot or I'll break every bone in your black and white carcass" startles the neighbor in the adjoining field for he thinks his satanic majesty is nigh. Others say they will not log on the wine when it is red and straightway they hunt the bushes for a jug of "white mule" because it is not red. These resolutions may be slightly excused inasmuch as they resulted under the influence of "tips" from Lebanon or some other point where "hog juice" is handed out per instructions over the telephone or by mail. Generally by telephone, however, as the mail is too slow.

Mrs. W. F. Jeffries and daughter, Miss Mollie, of White Oak, visited in this community last Thursday.

Miss Lillian Holladay visited in Columbia last week.

Mrs. W. F. Jeffries and Thomas Dunbar are contemplating having a saw mill set in their timber for the purpose of saving a large amount of lumber to be used in fencing.

Clarence Montgomery offered four cents each for rabbits last week and the boys formed a shooting line and went after 'em. Judging from the number of shots fired in this immediate vicinity, there are not many rabbits left.

Mrs. Robert Cabell, who has been in poor health for several weeks does not improve.

Mr. Martin Cave, who has been visiting here for some time, left last Friday for his home in North Dakota.

Ed Garrett writes from western Oklahoma that the wind is blowing hard with icicles hanging to it and that old settlers claim this is the hardest winter they have experienced for years. Ed is well pleased with that part of the world and is at work on his claim near Read Out in Woodward County.

Mr. James Holladay has been buying up a lot of young mules and now has twenty in his barn. A better lot of mules cannot easily be found anywhere. Mr. Holladay will keep them for the western market.

Miss Claudie Walker, a popular young lady of Nell, visited Miss Kate Walker last week.

The old year is gone and we merchants feel thankful to the public for the patronage given us in the past. We have all lived and can truthfully say that we have one week's provision ahead.

We have started in the new year with a full determination to live if we can. We are five in number, and we all expect to keep a full stock and sell cheap goods as can be bought. Call and see us.

The recent rains have made our roads almost impassable from here to the county seat, with any kind of conveyance. We trust in the near future, we will be connected with the proposed electric car or a first-class pike leading to Columbia.

We ridge people would be very thankful if the county court, who taxed us to build bridges over the high water courses, if it would compensate us a few dollars so we can put gravel on our roads or have our streets graded, so we can keep out of mud, as well as other people out of the water.

Sunday in this month. Everybody come out and hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hindman, at their hospitable home one day last week, entertained the following named persons: G. W. Flowers and wife, W. C. Hindman and wife, J. W. Townsend and wife, Mesdames Sam Mitchell, W. A. Wilmore, Misses Pearl Hindman, Mollie Caldwell, Mrs. W. M. Wilmore and daughters, Messrs. Curt Hindman, B. A. and J. A. Wilmore. The day was pleasantly spent, and the dinner was enjoyed that was prepared by the good lady of the house.

Prof. Garfield Flowers is in Louisville this week.

KNIFLEY.
Some fighting occurred in our town during Christmas. J. R. Beard and E. K. Bottom got into a fight but neither were very badly hurt. Ruel Tucker was out and stabbed by John Arnold's son.

PLEASE TELL.

I saw a brute come down the road Reeling beneath a brutal load, For his poor back a man bestrode And on his heel he wore a god. The brute was weak, the man was strong. The farmer short, the latter long, And to his hand he held a thong To lash the faithful brute along. While he with brutal pride elate Was riding by in mimic state, The brute submissive to his fate, Was ambling onward in his gait. A jockey of the Balaam clan, Proceeding on the same old plan, Will you please tell us if you can Which was most brute the mule or man?

SHOULD WOMEN PROPOSE.

Speaking of marriage, the case of Mrs. Leach is interesting. Mrs. Leach owns a ranch in the Antelope Valley, California. She is married to her second husband. Her first husband was "a nice, quiet, respectable old gentleman, and that's all there was to him." But her second husband—well, she was told of him by her lawyer and she went after him. She introduced herself to his business and they were married. All went well while she loaned him money, but later, when she wished to go visiting, he put his foot down, and when she insisted, he got a switch and thrashed her all the way to where she was going a mile and a half and all the way back again. All this she told in a Los Angeles court when she tried to get a divorce, but she was turned down by the judge, as she had nobody to substantiate her story and her husband denied it. This story would seem to answer the question "Should women propose?" If Mrs. Leach was going to her club when she was switched there are husbands who would induce the action of her husband—rude, vulgar men, of course, with no culture about them.

SOME ANSWERS.

The Editor of the Winchester Democrat sent out circular letters to a large number of married men subscribers and asked them why the married. Here are some of the answers: I didn't intend to do it.

That's the same old question my friends ask me.

Because I did not have the experience I have now.

I yearned for company. Now we have it all the time.

That's what I've been trying for 11 years to find out.

I married to get even with her mother or her father.

I thought it would be cheaper than breach of promises suit.

Because Tessie told me that five other men had proposed to her.

Because I asked her to have me: she said she would; I think she's got me.

I wanted a companion of the opposite sex. N. B. She is still opposite.

The old man was going to give me his foot, so I took his daughter's hand.

Because I thought she was one among a thousand; now I think she is a thousand among one.

I was lonesome and melancholy and wanted some one to make me lively.

I have exhausted all the figures in the arithmetic to find an answer to your question; between multiplication and division in the family and distraction in addition, the answer is hard to arrive at.

THE SCHOOL BOOK TRUST.

The battle for cheaper school-books in the hands of the 800,000 children of Kentucky has already begun. It will be concluded only when the next legislative adjourns. If it is not then successful, the contest will be waged before the succeeding legislature, and the next, until the children and parents win. The fight will be sharp, but the issue should not be doubtful. On one side stand every child and every mother and father in the State; on the other concentrated capital, a powerful lobby and every conceivable, corrupting influence.

The book-trust has been forced out of its monopoly and driven to direct competition in North Carolina, Louisiana, Texas and Tennessee and generally throughout northern States. It holds title to its monopoly in a few States of the South and West, and for this continued control it will fight to the last ditch, especially in Kentucky where another victory means at least two years more of fat pickings and probably closes its hold for a long period to come. It triumphed over Governor Beckham in the last legislature; if it wins out in the next, opposition will be disheartened and weakened. If Kentucky is ever to cease being a fruitful field for the operations of the book-trust, if the manipulations of the trust, by which the children of the State are forced to pay from thirty to fifty per cent. above fair prices for school-books, are to be put an end to, then the newspapers of the State must take hold of the subject in earnest. If they do not, public sentiment will not be terrorized across the State, and the book-trust will proceed without mercy with its work of holding up the 800,000 children of the State. It is a skin game, a mean game, a thoroughly disreputable game—a robbery not only of men but of women and children—but this will not be the least deterrence to those engaged in the shameful work of extortion. If the newspapers of Kentucky do their duty, the book-trust can be run out of the State.

A state uniformity law, coupled with a straight competition in bidding, means a reduction of from thirty to fifty per cent. in the price of all school-books, and this means a saving each year of $400,000 to $500,000 to Kentucky parents.—Glasgow Times.

KILLED HIS SISTER.

In Central City Sunday at eleven o'clock, a happy home was plunged into deepest mourning in a twinkling. At this hour James Sexton, Jr., a lad of but fifteen years, shot and instantly killed his sister Ada, a bright little girl of eight years. The shooting was purely accidental.

The children were those of James Sexton, a carpenter and contractor, who resided on Jefferson avenue between Thirtieth and Fourteenth streets, and Mr. Sexton is an honest industrious man, in fact one of the city's best citizens. The accident which cast a gloom over the entire community occurred this way. James, the youth who has a fondness for shot guns, recently purchased a fine breach loading gun. Sunday morning he concluded to give it a thorough cleaning. He was not aware that the gun was loaded, and of course was handling it recklessly. His little sister, who had just completed her toilet preparatory to going to Sunday School, entered the room and an instant later there was a deafening report and the innocent little girl fell lifeless to the floor, almost the entire left side of her head being blown away. The bulk of the charge had entered just to the left of her nose. The sight was one horrible in the extreme. Neighbors soon reached the scene and took charge of the remains until the undertaker arrived. A coroner's jury was later empaneled and their verdict was in accordance with the above facts.

The funeral occurred at two o'clock this afternoon and was conducted by Rev. A. D. Craig, pastor of the Central City M. E. Church. The burial was at Hill's cemetery.—Boyd county Democrat.

A Marvelous Invention.

Wonders never cease. A machine has been invented that will cut, paste and hang wall paper. The field of inventions and discoveries seems to be unlimited. Notable among great discoveries is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It has done a world of good for weak lungs and saved many a life. Thousands have used it and conquered Grip, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and Consumption. Their general verdict is: "It's the best and most reliable medicine for throat and lung troubles.
